

Hair Envy

Taylor Taylor London has everything you could need to switch up your colour and style for the party season ahead

Words BETHAN ANDREWS

A velvet headband is a simple and easy way to add some glamour everyday

It might still feel like a distant thought but the Christmas party season is fast approaching and one thing that always lets us down is the dry and dull hair that the British winter forces upon us.

So, when you face the gauntlet of cocktail parties, endless celebrations with friends or even black tie events, it means that you need a handy repertoire of evening hairstyles to take you through the festive season. Lucky for you, Taylor Taylor London are on hand to guide you.

One of the biggest problems with the onslaught of Christmas celebrations in the city is the constant rush we find ourselves in. When time is of the essence and you need to change it up from work to wonderful, then reach for this season's hottest fabric in the form of luxurious velvet.

For a simple and speedy fix, try a low ponytail pulled back at the nape of the neck. Next, wrap the velvet around both the ponytail and your neck for an up-to-date choker effect. To really vamp it up, go for a deep side parting and sweep your hair across the forehead.

For those of you who have the time to visit the salon, why not try sweeping the hair away from your face and securing with a velvet headband while your stylist creates a classic French pleat to complete the look. This is a style that is forecast to be huge this season.

Another popular trend for the free spirited, is the 70s glamour look. Add some serious volume with a bit of gentle backcombing and pull out your largest barrel tongs and hairspray. When you need that extra time in bed to sleep the next morning, you can simply pull your hair away from your forehead with a long clip whilst keeping the sides free - don't be afraid of showing your roots on this one.

If you are fed up of using hair accessories though then why not make a colour statement for the season instead. A powder grey root stretch with modern undone layers sweeping across your eyes is one of the sexiest looks of the season and is perfect for any event - not to mention being dramatic and eye-catching.

But if you are yearning for a more elegant look then Taylor Taylor London's unique formula of chalky rose quartz tones looks stunning on bob length hair swept into a half-up style and secured at the back with a pin or clip. This one is timeless and seemingly effortless.

Just because there is an abundance of events to keep up with and the dark nights make you want to curl up in bed of an evening doesn't mean that your hair has to be neglected. It only takes a blow-dry or colour update to leave you feeling fresh, so head to Taylor Taylor London to find out more.

All hair was created by the Taylor Taylor London team; Photography by Jack Eames and Olia Dashkevich; 309 Portobello Road W10 5TD; 020 8960 8569; taylorlondon.com